

The Thing Inside St. Agnes

The Thing Inside St. Agnes

The Hook

St. Agnes Hospital has recorded an alarming increase in unexplained infant deaths over the past several months. Internal reviews have found no common medical cause, and staff have been quietly instructed not to discuss the cases.

Night-shift workers tell a different story.

Several janitors and nurses report hearing a woman singing lullabies in the neonatal ward late at night, often from rooms they know to be empty.

One janitor claims he saw her.
